Why renovating INSEP?

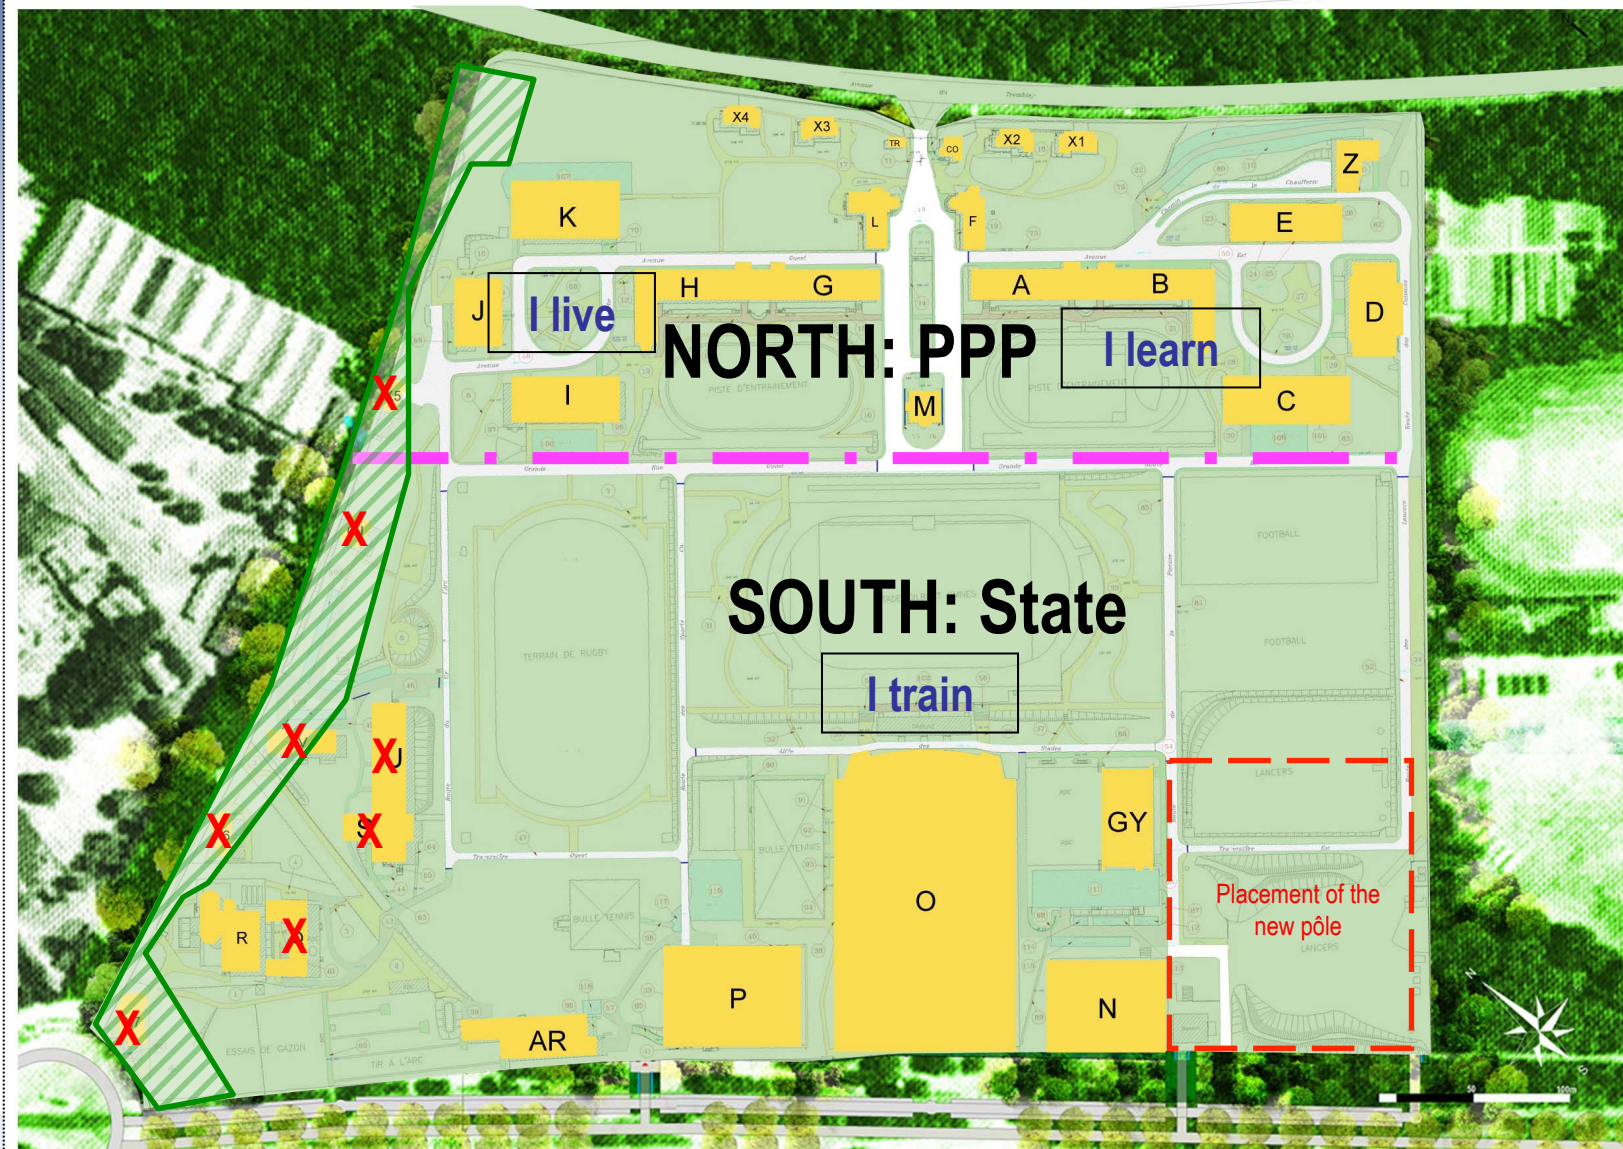

- 2002: alarming reports.
- Facing the risk to see French Federations leaving the institute.
- When athletes are asked to strive for the best, it is necessary to offer them optimal facilities.
- Renovation was necessary to maintain the standard set by the worldwide sport environment.

Renovation plan

- Jean-François LAMOUR, Minister of Youth, Health, Sports, and Associative Life, announced INSEP's renovation plan on April 27, 2004. This represented an unprecedented financial effort for the State: about €200 Million.
- The renovation of the buildings is declined in two parts:
 - North Zone: Public-Private Partnership → €77.1 million.
 - South Zone: works technically and financially financed and piloted by the State → €80 million + €20 million (New Swimming Pool – instead of the one that was burned down in November 2008).

Renovation plan

- Renovation of the sports facilities, with the objective to have the same level of equipment in each complex:
 - a specific training area,
 - a specific area for weight-lifting and video analysis,
 - a physiotherapy and medical area,
 - access to a hydro-rehabilitation centre,
 - specific offices and meeting rooms above the sport field for the coaches.

Another issues at stake

- Reaching an optimised use of the facilities with controlled costs.
- Paying attention to the environmental issue.
